Nursing Homes

How to research a Nursing Home medicare.gov/nursinghomecompare

This online tool run by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services rates more than 15,000 Nursing Homes that are certified by that agency, on a scale of one to five stars (the more stars the better). NHC bases its ratings on three categories: How the home fared on health inspections, whether it is staffed adequately and how it is rated on other quality measures (for example how many residents reported bedsores or were physically restrained). Experts advise that you take the time to dig into the information behind the rating. Just because there's a five-star rating doesn't mean it's going to be great." Says Charlene Harrington, an emeritus professor at the university of California, San Francisco who researches nursing homes. You need to do the research.

I created this free senior guide to make it easier for seniors and their families to identify these solutions when they need it most, often during a health care crisis. It is also a useful tool for families to plan ahead so that they can choose the best solution for their loved ones, honor their wishes, while reducing family stress. Harmony Home Care Referral Service, LLC is not affiliated with these organizations or services and this guide is not all-inclusive. Our clients reside in the Verde Valley and this guide was created to meet their local needs. While it is not our intention to exclude any service from this guide, it is not possible for us to include every service in the Verde Valley. We have included the resources & services that are most frequently requested by our clients, their families and our community. We thank the social workers and other health care professionals in the Verde Valley for their contributions.

Updated 9/30/2019

We are deeply grateful to our Community for entrusting us with their home care needs and for their continued support over the years. We are privileged to be at your service.
